

Looked dreary up top, but magically cleared up!

I've said many times, any ride you can see your shadow is a great day to ride. Today was a great day to ride! When Kevin and I rode over Jefferson to the start of the ride, all we could see ahead of us on Skyline was gray. But, like magic, it cleared up before we got to it. Nice temperatures, smoke gone, beautiful shadows. What's not to like?