

We're back (Almost-Daily Diary hacked)

There are a lot of fun things about running a bike shop, mostly having to do with bikes and cycling. The past couple of weeks I've had to deal with the not-so-fun stuff, in this case, dealing with issues on the webserver that hosts this (the Almost-Daily Diary). After an hour long phone call today to LunarPages (our webhost) it looks like things are getting resolved and we're back up and running... hopefully for a while! --MikeJ