

Did you miss us? We disappeared from the 'net for a day...

First things first. If you time it right, if you get up to Skyline just as the fog's burning off, it's really pretty up there. Too bad that it also makes a total mess of your bike, with the moisture from the ground getting picked up by your tires and tossed into your chain & derailleurs. Hate that!

Kevin, Kevin, Eric and... anybody else? Don't recall. Ok pace up through the park, but about halfway up Kevin (the kid) had a pretty long seizure that wrecked any possibility of a decent time. It's going to take a while before his $100k brain implant is fully up to speed.

But all of that happened in a vacuum, because we lost the chainreactionblogs.com website for a day. Apparently the change from yearly renewal to less-expensive 5 year renewal had a glitch that took us offline for a day. Very frustrating trying to update things but there's nothing there. Don't worry, we're back. Pretty pictures and everything.