

Where did everybody go?

Not many others out on the roads this morning. Why? For that matter, seemed like quite a few more cars than normal. Was this opposites day?

Just me & Kevin (not the pilot) riding up through the park. Temps had dropped to the low 50s and there does seem to be a threshold, somewhere around the mid-50s, where I breathe a lot better above that temp than below. 32 minutes up Kings was definitely slower than planned! It did warm up nicely up on top though, with the rest of the ride being at a pretty good pace (with Kevin pulling at the front, of course!).

We did an out-and-back on the lower section of West Old LaHonda, to check up on the construction. Yes, it's real, they're fixing our road. Proof is in the picture above! Hopefully we'll have it back soon.
