

Bike Friday shakedown test before France

If all goes according to plan, we'll do the Thursday morning ride on our regular bikes, take a fast shower when we get home, then head to the airport for France. Today was prep work for the trip, testing out the Bike Friday folding bikes before putting them into their suitcases for the trip. The plan was to do the disassembly today, but way too hectic at the shop for that. Tomorrow promises to be rather stressful!