

Ok, that?s an odd way to start

Heading over Jefferson to the start of the ride, we're in a bit of a rush leaving a tad late, and we get held up by a huge moving van trying to make a sharp turn? Not like any way to get around it! Fortunately Colin didn't realize the ride starts at EXACTLY 7:45am so didn't give us a bad time for being 40 seconds late.

Cold? Yeah, down to 33 and never really warmed up. Climbing is getting weird for me; if I follow wheels, I feel like I'm going to get dropped. But no problem if I do intervals, flying off the front for a minute then wait for Kevin and Colin to catch up. Doesn't make sense. But, this is still 2020 after all.