

Bike to work hero or opportunist?

Pretty amazing feat today by Patrick, our Redwood City service manager. By carefully studying the map of "energizer stations" available on the Peninsula for Bike to Work day, he managed to score swag from 15 of them! The toughest part was getting an early start on the day, since the stations closed at 9am.

Makes my morning ride seem insignificant, although any time I can do Kings through the park in less than 29 minutes I'm pretty happy (and tired!).
