

It's just a cover story

Sure, the vagal nerve stimulator Kevin's in the hospital for is supposed to help with his seizures. But that's just the cover story. This is the "real" future of doping. Direct electrical stimulation of the brain. The DS carries a remote control box and controls his riders as if he had a cattle prod, only better.

