

In DC for Bikes!

Day
Mar 6

38^{°F}
High

Rain / Snow / Wind

DC weather for the day we storm the 'hill.

It's time for the annual trip to DC to try and convince congress not to kick bikes off the roads. Not really, but it can feel like that sometimes. Tough to say what sort of reception we're going to have, since it's all about the budget crisis right now, and trying to keep local grants for worthwhile projects intact is going to be tough. Maybe they'll take pity on us due to the weather?

It's going to be tough getting up for an early start tomorrow morning... 6:30am DC time, which will be 3:30am back home. Is that right? Is this even possible? Film at 11.