

What would I do in Florida?

Didn't notice how cool the wheels looked when I took this photo! What would it be like in Florida, having to find overpasses to climb?

A couple days late again, reporting on Thursday-morning's ride. Some might have thought I wasn't going to make it, having had a tooth pulled the day before, but no lasting effects. In fact, I rode my bike from the dentist's office to the shop immediately afterward. No pain killers stronger than Advil either.

A bit on the cool & breezy side, as the front was just beginning to move in. No records, but not terribly slow either. Joe, Eric, Kevin & JR, with Eric taking it a bit easy in the days ahead of the Devil Mtn Double Century on Saturday.
