

Yeah, this page isn't happening... what I'm going to try to do going forward

Obviously I haven't been posting much here. It's a combination of life getting in the way (which, in itself, is a story worth telling) and the difficulty of updating WordPress vs Facebook. If it wasn't all about photos... having a picture to tell the story has always been a big thing for me. For a few years, I had a "Why We Ride" thing going, photos of interesting or beautiful or both, that showed, no words needed, why we ride.

So I'm not giving up, but for the time being, will try a compromise where my Facebook feed automatically posts here. Facebook, being photo-oriented, is an easier format for post-and-run opportunities.

Thanks-

Mike Jacoubowsky

(the guy who's embarrassed by the name "Almost-daily diary" when it hasn't been updated in a month!)